WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, June 1, 1909.

The test vote taken on the income tax question in the senate last week, is believed to foreshadow a victory for the Republican leaders in their plan to refer both the Bailey and Cummins amendments to the Judiciary Committee. The vote to defer consideration of the income tax amendments until June 10th means that no amendments provide for special taxes will be taken up by the Senate until the schedules of the tariff bill are adopted, and it is the intention, of courae, of the Finance Committee to show that the new customs duties will raise sufficient revenue to support the government and that any special tax is wholly unnecessary.

The senatorial character of the dispatches sent out from Washington concerning defective armor plates which have been found in the construction of the battleships North Dakota and Delaware, is greatly deprecated by the officials at the Navy Department. They explain that defective plates always are and always have been found from time to time; that it is not known what causes the blisters and, therefore, it has been impossible thus far to prevent their occasional occurence. It has been the custom, heretofore, merely to reject the plates when found defective, without saying anything about it, but recently the department has adopted a new policy. As nothing was to be gained by secrecy, no effort is now made to conceal the fact that such defective plates have been found and rejected, although the first information to reach the public has received wholly unwarranted prominence.

President Taft and Secretary Knox are not a little disturbed over the reports which reach them of conditions in Cuba. It seems that the new Cuban government is just awakening to its freedom from American restraint and is in a fair way to muddle the finances of the island if it does not precipitate a national bankruptcy. The government is devoting its energies to the indulgence of varied and numerous extravagances while making small effort to supply the treasury of the island with funds. Those familiar with Cuban affairs know that unless this epoch of extravagence is soon checked it will precipitate a situation such as to cause the foreign creditors of Cuba to turn to the United States for assistance, making necessary another assumption of authority over the island. President Taft considers the situation down there far from satisfactory and is much concerned over it.

The action of Senator Bailey in so far forgetting himself as to indulge in a fistic encounter with a Washington representative of a metropolitan daily is much censured throughout official circles, and by his conduct he has completely justified the expectations of those who have long believed that with brass knuckles and a blackjack he could down any man half his size, provided he could succeed first in hitting him from behind. This is not the first demonstration that Mr. Bailey has given of his inability to control his temper and while such outbursts are always seriously deplored by his colleagues, they injure no one but the Texan who has thereby impaired his standing almost hopelessly.

EXTENSIVE DEAL IN POWDER PLANT.

Negotiations have been pending for some weeks between several stockholders of Emporiuum Powder Manufacturing Co., for the purchase of a controlling interest of stock. On Tuesday C. B. Howard & Company closed a deal whereby they take over all stock held in Emporium, which gives them control of the company, settling a long contest that was liable to get into court. With practically seven powder plants the companies now controlled by this firm and their associates they rank as the second largest dynamite manufacturers in the United States, enabling them to compete with any comers. The three plants in this county furnish employment to a large force of workmen and enjoy a large and growing patronage. This county is fortunate to possess capitalists with means sufficient to handle deals like this firm does. All helps our county. Are their efforts appreciated?

Fourth of July Celebration.

The committee appointed by the Board of Trade to prepare a celebration of the Nation's birthday on July 5th, at Keystone Park is hard at work, and promises our citizens a entertainment. There will be "something doing every minute." Don't forget to invite your out of town friends to spend the day with us in Emporium. Program will be announced later.

Sure of the Goal.

Frank L. Miller, of Grove, Republican candidate for Jury Commissioner, transacted business in Emporium yesterday. Mr. Miller is one of the best farmers in the county, young, active and popular at home. Frank is all right and, having no opposition, will be nominated at the Uniform Primaries next Saturday, as the Republican nominee.

Cheer Up, Man, Cheer Up!

Cheer up! The world is taking your photograph. Look pleasant. Of course you have your troubles—troubles you cannot tell. A whole lot of things bother you, of course business worries or domestic sorrows, it may be, or what not. You find life a rugged road whose stones hurt your feet. Nevertheless, cheer up.

It may be your disease is selfishness—ingrown selfishness. Your life is too self centered. You imagine your tribulations are worse than others bear. You feel sorry for yourself—the meanest sort of pitty. It is a pathetic illusion. Rid yourself of that and cheer up.

What right have you to carry a picture of your woe-begone face and funeral ways about among your fellows, who have troubles of their own. If you must whine or sulk or scrowl, go to the weods or to the unfrequented lanes.

Cheer up! Your ills are largely imaginary. If you were really on the brink of bankruptcy, or if there were no thoroughfare through your sorrows you would clear your brows, set your teeth and make the best of it.

Cheer up! You are making a hypothetical case but of your troubles, and suffering from a self-inflicted verdict. You are borrowing trouble and paying a high rate of interest.

Cheer up! Why, man alive, in a five minute walk you may see a score of people worse off than you. And here you are digging your own grave and playing pallbearer into the bargain. Man alive, you must do your work! Smile, even though it be through your tears, which speedily dry.—Keystone Gazette.

OIL MEN HAVE A STRONG ALLY.

In Senator Penrose, who is Taking Greatest Interest in Their Item in the Tariff Bill.

Mr. L. W. Strayer, the Pittsburg Gazette-Times' Washington correspondent, writes his paper:

Hon. Lewis Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Pa., came to Washington several weeks ago to boost the propaganda for a protective duty on petroleum and he has been here on the job ever since, with a few intermissions for business trips home. Not only has he spread the gospel of a duty on oil during his visit, but he has also established an entente cordiate wth his old time political enemy, Senator Boies Penrose. No protocol or peace contract has been signed; just the establishment of harmonious relations. How far it will go or how long it will last is purely a guess.

During these weeks that the independent oil men have put in buttonholing senators and pulling all wires that have senatorial connections in their worthy endeavor to secure protection for the American oil industry, they have learned something about Penrose they never knew before. They had the idea that a lot of other people had about him, that because he did not fill the pages of the Congressional Record with speeches he was indolent and did nothing to speak of.

LEARN PENROSE IS A WORKER.

But they have had their eyes opened recently. They have observed Penrose in action, have learned of the months of hard, grinding work he has put in on the tariff bill, that he has not missed a meeting of the committee, that he has scarcely taken time for his meals in order that he might keep engagements to discuss schedules in which his constituents were interested. The earliest riser among them found Penrose ahead of him at the breakfast room and the last to bed left him in conference with anxious business men.

When the oil men came to him, Penrose took up their case at once and pushed their claims before the committee. He told them to get busy and how to go about it. He talked with them and for them and helped them in every way possible.

It was under this melting influence that the pugnacious spirit of Lewis Emery, Jr., was subdued. Penrose in action was a revelation to him and as a result Mr. Emery has told every Pennsylvanian he met about the industry and efficient work of Boies Penrose.

EMERY PRAISED PENROSE.

It was rather a novelty to hear Emery praising Penrose, but he did it with an enthusiasm that was contagious. Two years ago last fall Emery was out on the stump as the fusion candidate for governor, hammering Penrose and his organization twice a day all over the state. And before that—but why rake up the past? Suffice it to say that peace has been restored.

"It is reported that you and Senator Penrose have buried the hatchet and with it the past, and that now you are good friends again," was suggested to Mr. Emery.

"Who told you that?" he inquired.

"It's reported about everywhere among Pennsylvanians."

"Oh, Penrose and I were never personal enemies," said Mr. Emery. "We have had political differenoes in the past and we might have them in the future. We served together six years in the state senate and we have always been friends. Of course, as I said, we have had political differences, but what of that? When the organization puts up good candidates I am for them, and when it doesn't, I oppose them.

HOPE TO CONVINCE SENATE.

"But I believe, in giving credit where credit is due, and I have said and say again that Penrose is a hard worker and has been doing splendid service for his state in this tariff legislation. He's a wonder, a tireless worker and nobody will give him more credit for it than I do."

Teachers to Co-Operate with Forest Service in Tree Study.

Teachers throughout the country have been invited by the United States Forester to co-operate with the Forest Service in an effort to obtain more definite knowledge of the characteristics of the most important forest trees of the United States. To do this it will be necessary to obtain a large number of volunteer observers who will collect material on the time of leafing, blossoming and fruiting of the various kinds of forest trees. In his letter inviting the co-operation of the teachers, Forester Pinchot says:

"Knowledge of this kind is greatly needed and will be of value from the standpoint both of education and of practical forestry. For educational purposes the results obtained for each species, averaged and presented graphically by means of colored charts, will be available to all who are interested in the subject, and particularly to schools. They will form virtual "tree calendars," and will be valuable aids to nature study.

"Children can readily be interested in the actual work of obtaining records. This should form an attractive outdoor feature of the school work that should serve to develop the faculty of accurate observation, and at the same time to promote an interest in forestry which may lead to a better appreciation of its aims and methods. It may also prove to be a profitable addition to botany courses for older students.

"A study of this kind will be of great value to practical forestry, since the proper treatment of forests depends partly upon a knowledge of these characteristics of trees. For example, the time of year at which a tree leafs out and blossoms is one of the indications as to whether or not it is frosthardy in a given region, and the length of time a tree is in leaf influences the growth it is able to make during the season. Knowledge of the time when seeds of each species ripen in various localities is of great value to those who are collecting seed, since seed often deteriorates or is eaten by squirrels and birds if not gathered and stored as soon as ripe.

"Another result of this study will be a more intimate knowledge of climate as manifested by plant growth, for differences in climate are shown by plant life as well as by instruments, and a preliminary idea can thus be gained as to whether a given region is suited to a valuable tree which is desired to introduce there. Many examples could be given, but sufficient has been said to show that the results of these observations will be a real help to practical forestry, in addition to their general interest and educational value. Volunteers will later be supplied with publications and charts containing the information they help to gather, as a return for the services rendered."

On request, the Forest Service will be glad to send forms upon which to record data and a pamphlet containing full instructions as to the nature of the observations and how they are to be made.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT MEDIX RUN.

Loss Over $200,000.

On Tuesday the mill of Goodyear Lumber Co., at Medix Run, on A. V. R. R., went up in smoke, destroying $80,000 worth of sawed lumber, in addition to machine shop and other buildings. It is not thought the mill will be rebuilt, the logs to be taken to Austin mill on B. & S. R. R. If so, this will be a severe loss to Medix Run.

District Convention.

The Cameron County Sabbath School Association will hold its district conventions as follows:—June 10th, Hicks Run; June 11th, Sterling Run. Addresses will be delivered by Hon. Josiah Howard, president of the association; Rev. John Lyman Bogue, pastor First Baptist church, Emporium, and Rev. R. W. Runyan, Sinnamahoning.

At the afternoon sesseons Mr. Bogue will give a model Sunday School lesson and Miss Charlott Spence will present methods. Vocal music will be rendered by Miss Rachael Brookbank and Mr. Laughton Richardson of Driftwood. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the work.

JOE PAGANO WILL HANG 29th!

Gov. Stuart on Wednesday last fixed the 29th of June, as the date for the execution of Joe Pagano, who murdered John Kibe the night of November 26th, last. When Sheriff Norris read the death warrant he appeared to understand every word and evidently felt easier, for he ate and slept well—something he has not done for a long time, expecting every time the jail door opened that he was to be taken out and hanged. The prisoner now seems to have a desire to know just how he is to be handled and asks many questions.

Sheriff Norris has many requests for tickets of admission to witness the execution.

Pleasant Evening.

The Misses Lena and Julia Bair entertained a few friends in honor of their guest, Miss Theresa Whitaker, of Olean, last Monday evening. The time was pleasantly spent in social conversation and cards, after which a light collation was served. Those present were Misses Lena Coyle, Christie MacDonald, Mayme Cummings, Ellen Auchu, Messrs. Van Kuren, Randell, Vogt, Hayes, Forster and Sterner.

THREE GREAT POWERS SUFFER.

The great sufferers from Austria's diplomatic triumph are Russia, England and France, who find an important change made in the map of Europe without their consent. Germany's favor was sufficient to enable Austria to carry it through, against the wishes of Russia, England, France and Italy, just as her opposition sufficed to block France's effort to retint the map of Morocco recently, though these same four powers stood by the French policy in Morocco. The Servian incident is really a diplomatic triumph for Germany, since Germany's support alone saved Austria from defeat. It shows what power to-day exercises the dominating influence in the sphere of continental politics. Germany does this in virtue of her possession of the largest and most efficient army in Europe, while her navy is inferior.

If a bill now pending before the New York legislature becomes a law the chronic "drunk" will be shipped to a farm colony, with an inebriate hospital attached, where he can be scientifically treated and at the same time be made to work for his board. The plan is the outgrowth of the resentment of Bellevue hospital in having to treat the same old topers over and over again, and of the weariness of charity organizations in dealing with them. It is a good scheme, for in all this temperance movement the man who habitually gets drunk and makes a beast of himself should not be overlooked. And there is some reason to believe that the chronic drunkard will not immediately pass out of existence even in "dry" communities.

According to a Rutland dispatch the attorney general of Vermont having got a verdict of murder in the first degree left the courtroom in tears. The Americans seem to have the tenderest lachrymal ducts of any people in the world, though the Vermonters have been thought to be of sterner stuff. Still, having done his duty, the attorney general was entitled to the solace of weeping; and it is a fact that the poor, prosecuted and usually acquitted murderer or murderess is the sure onion for the sentimental eye. Nobody else approaches him as a player upon the sympathies and a tear bottle.

There appears to be a revival of ferocity among some of the more fanatical peoples of Asia. Following the stories of murder and destruction by Moslems in Armenia are reports of a massacre of 2,000 persons by Turcoman tribesmen at Astrabad, Persia. It is most sincerely to be hoped that the accounts may prove exaggerated, although the atrocities perpetrated by the Turcomans on other occasions leave room for the worst apprehensions.

Perhaps there'll come a time when the laws of different states will show uniformity in treatment of automobile owners. Then the man who starts out on a tour will know what to expect. At present every car needs to take along a library of laws and town regulations. New Hampshire has just fixed a flat rate of $10 for car owners. Connecticut has a sliding scale ranging from $30 to $6, according to power.

Another proposition of the Simple Spellers is to scatter a small army of persuasive talkers over the country to give public addresses and push the cause along. In simple spelling terminology they will probably be called "Spelbinders."

Britain does well if it catches more than a wink of sleep these nights, now that Russia and Austria also have gone feverishly to building Dreadnoughts.

Nevada will stand for prize fights occasionally and gold-mine promoters most of the time, but it is beginning to shrink from the get-single-quick divorce business.

It will be hard for anybody to find a better or more stirring exhortation than that which Gen. William Booth on his eightieth birthday sent broadcast—"Go forward."

NOT YET A NATION

PORTO RICO NEEDS GUIDANCE OF THE UNITED STATES.

Present Unendurable Situation Should Be Ended by Congress Following the Recommendations of President Taft.

When the representatives of the people in parliament or a colonial assembly have refused to vote supplies unless salutary legislation should be enacted history has approved of their action. It is another matter when the politicians who rule the Porto Rican house of delegates try to use its control of the purse strings to force the enactment of vicious legislation. Anything which savors of taxation without the concurrence of the taxed—unless, indeed, they are women—is repugnant to American ideals, but some of those ideals do not work out well among people who have not been reared in an American atmosphere—the Porto Ricans, for instance. They are not so far advanced politically as it was supposed they were.

The legislation which the native politicians who run the popular branch of the Porto Rican legislature have been trying to secure has not been described in detail, but it is said to be redolent of graft. Congress reserved to itself the power to annul any Porto Rican laws when it seemed advisable. But the executive council and the governor cannot, in order to get the appropriation bills through, give their sanction to bad laws in the hope that congress will annul them. Great harm might be done before congress, which moves slowly, could get around to the matter.

It is better to admit that a mistake was made in granting too much power to a politically uneducated people and rectify it at once. An exceeding bitter cry may be heard from the corporal's guard of anti-imperialists. They are still laboring under the delusion that the inhabitants of any country, even though they be only half civilized, are fully prepared to take a respectable place among the nations of the earth when equipped with the ballot, a model constitution, and a flag. The antis may say that the proposition to deprive an ignorant and venal set of men of the power to stop the wheels of government unless their corrupt measures shall be acquiesced in is iniquitous. It is meant for the good of the Porto Ricans. They would suffer greatly from the administrative paralysis which is threatened through the refusal of the house of deputies to vote the appropriations. Congress should come to the assistance of the inhabitants of the island by the prompt enactment of the legislation recommended by President Taft.—Chicago Tribune.

Senator Cummins' Bad Break.

It is unfortunate that Senator Cummins, in the heat of debate, should have made reference to "the lamp-post" as a possible method of compelling tariff revision in the interest of the consumer.

Senator Cummins has long been an ardent champion of tariff revision, and he contends for a revision that revises. That is all right. He is entitled to his views, just as any man is, and he is abundantly able to present these views, forcibly and attractively to the country.

But when he talks of lamp-posts, if his views are not accepted and adopted, he lowers the dignity of his plea and weakens the force of his appeals. He treads on dangerous ground. He enters the domain of the firebrand demagogue.

No one knows better than Senator Cummins that we are in no danger of the reign of the lamp-post in this country, and if we were it would be the duty of the senator and all other patriotic citizens to stamp out the peril at once.

Lamp-post legislation must not get any footing in America and no loyal citizen will appeal to the passions of men to fan the flames of lawlessness.

We trust we are right in believing that Senator Cummins' break was a slip of the tongue or an unguarded utterance in the heat of debate.

Must Answer to Constituents.

The voters laid down in the last election a simple rule to govern tariff revision. There are numerous duties in the Payne and Aldrich bills which seem to them to violate the rule. They would like to have them explained, if there be an explanation. They do not wish their representatives to accept submissively Senator Aldrich's assumption that the tariff question is too deep for them. No senator or representative should vote for a duty the justice of which he cannot make plain to his constituents in the next campaign.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

No Alliance with Democrats.

The Democratic proffer of a working alliance with the insurgent Republican senators on the tariff has been respectfully declined. Messrs. Cummins, La Follette, Bristow and the other Republicans who have been attacking some of the Payne-Aldrich schedules know that the Republican party has been commissioned to control the government for a few years longer, at least, and they wisely desire to remain part of the government.

Notwithstanding.

President Taft's administration seems to be wise and sound thus far, notwithstanding the paucity of Mr. Bryan's criticisms. — Kansas City Journal

GET AFTER THE PRINCIPALS.

If Sugar Trust Officials Were Cognizant of Employes' Dishonesty, They Must Be Punished.

By discharging and deserting its seven indicted employes, the sugar trust is not making the favorable impression calculated on. It must make an honest and visible effort to discuss the really responsible men.

It is impossible to persuade any reasonable person that these dock workmen who manipulated the doctored scales by which the government was systematically cheated out of millions in withheld duties acted of their own motion and out of their zeal to help the company make money. The company profited enormously by the frauds, it confessed the frauds by disgorging over $2,000,000 in loot, and the unavoidable conclusion is that some comparatively high placed officials instigated the crooked work at the docks.

It is utterly incredible that company officers higher up did not know of the steady series of differences for 12 years between the purchase weights and the duty weights of its sugar—a difference in its own favor to the tune of some eight or nine millions in customs duties. In the test case which compelled the restitution agreement it was attested that these now indicted company weighers or checkers got more money in their pay envelopes than was marked on the outside. That, it would appear, was their little share of the swag. The company got the millions.

Now somebody higher up in the company corrupted these dock workmen—that inference is scarcely avoidable. The public wants to know and the department of justice means to find out the principals in this system of sneak thievery from the government at the company's Williamsburg docks.

"Taft and Economy."

The assurance from Washington that economy is to be the watchword of the new administration is grateful to the ears of people who realize that reckless extravagance can no more be practiced by nations than by individuals without suffering consequences always unpleasant and sometimes disastrous. President Roosevelt always was impulsively heedless of expense. He showed this in the plans for the rebuilding of the White House. He showed it in his naval policy. He set a pace and made an atmosphere for reckless expenditure in all the departments of the government.

Under the administration of President Taft a new attitude toward the public treasury is expected to prevail. In the first place the president is threatened at the outset of his term with the necessity of borrowing to meet a deficit. That is a situation which might curb impulsive desire to spend. But President Taft is not new in the business of public administration. He knows its success often depends upon careful financial management. His colonial administrations have succeeded to admiration, and his national administration is likely to succeed.

The word has gone forth to the cabinet and through members of the cabinet to head of bureaus in all the departments that estimates of the money needed for the next fiscal year must be cut to the bone. Congress will have to be more circumspect at this session than it was at the last.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

The Panama Canal.

The opening of the Panama canal will mark a date of the highest importance in the hitory of the world. Whether the work of construction is to cost the United States £35,000,000 for a lock canal or double that sum for a sea-level canal, the money will have been well spent. The canal will give the United States, for practical purposes, a continuous coastline from the state of Washington to Maine. By digging a waterway 50 miles in length the United States will, in fact, double the effectiveness of its navy without increasing its numerical strength. Commercially the effects of the canal will be equally far-reaching. Despite a tendency toward closer political and social relations, the United States and South America have remained in matters of trade on comparatively distant terms. Especially is this the case with those communities that lie between the Andes and the Pacific ocean. New York is as remote by sea from Valparaiso as Liverpool or Hamburg. The Panama canal will bring them thousands of miles closer.—London Times.

A Great American.

At 56 Secretary Knox stands as one of the greatest of Americans. The dinner given him on his birthday was a splendid tribute to his many accomplishments. No finer tributes have ever been paid any man of modern times than those showered upon by the secretary by great Americans and great men of other countries. Achievement and character are embodied in the physically small and intellectually great Pennsylvanian.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Of course, as the advance agent of prosperity, Mr. Taft is somewhat ahead of the procession, as was William McKinley in 1897. But he is the advance agent of prosperity just the same, and the procession is there just the same. Let everybody save his breath, keep up his courage and in a few months he will see the vanguard clambering over the heights and into the new light of better things!

Mr. Bryan's paper prints three pages of a speech he delivered in congress in 1894. By the time Mr. Bryan reaches his silver orations he will never lack something to fill up with

NICARAGUA AND U. S. SIGN PROTOCOL

LONG PENDING EMERY CLAIM WILL BE SUBMITTED TO ARBITRATION.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF CLAIM

Nicaragua Annulled a Concession Granted for Cutting Mahogany Because of Alleged Violation of Its Provisions.

Washington, D. C.—A protocol for submission to arbitration of the Emery claim has been signed with representatives of the Nicaragua government at the home of Secretary of State Knox.

In the protocol is a provision that during four months from this date the representatives of Nicaragua will have the opportunity to endeavor to reach a definitive settlement of the claim directly with the company subject to the approval of the government of the United States. Failing in such a settlement the course of arbitration will begin at the expiration of the four months.

Description of Claim.

The claim, which has been long pending, arose out of the annulment by Nicaragua of a concession granted for cutting mahogany because of an alleged violation of its provisions. About two weeks ago Pedro Gonzales arrived in Washington as a special messenger from President Zelaya of Nicaragua, to settle the claim either by compromise or by arbitration. Soon after Secretary Knox came into office he sent to Senor Espinoza, Nicaragua minister here, a communication generally regarded as an ultimatum, whereupon President Zelaya announced the appointment of Senor Gonzales as a special ambassador to settle the claim. In receiving Senor Gonzales on May 17 last, President Taft said to him at the White House in part:

"In performing the acts which constitute your mission I need not assure you that you will be received by this government with that equitable and kindly disposition which has always characterized the attitude of the United States towards Nicaragua, and which, coupled with mutual trust, sincerity and regard for justice is the only sure ground of continued relations."

TWO MEN SHOT TO DEATH

A Four-Cornered Duel Among Prominent Citizens of Laurel Township, N. C.

Charlotte, N. C.—Arthur and Andy Franklin were shot to death in Laurel township, a remote section of Madison county, in a four-cornered duel in which the Franklins were arrayed against the Tweed brothers.

Robert Tweed and Arthur Franklin met at the store of Arthur Franklin and, resuming a quarrel several days old, both opened fire. Andy Franklin endeavored to stop the fight, it is said, but Maj. Tweed interfered and both drawing pistols, the fight became general. Andy Franklin was killed, Arthur Franklin died of his wounds and Maj. Tweed received a serious wound in the thigh. Beverly Stanton, a bystander, was shot in the thigh. No arrests have been made. The four men were among the most prominent citizens of the county.

ADMITS THE GUNNESS CRIME

American Sailor Held in Norway Confesses Helping Woman Murder and Then Slaying Her.

Christiania, Norway. — A young American sailor is under arrest at Frederikstad, near Christiania, as a self-confessed murderer. He told his captain that he helped Mrs. Belle Gunness kill four persons on her farm near La Porte, Ind., and that he then killed Mrs. Gunness herself.

The man did not impress the captain as being insane, but as one forced by his conscience to tell the truth. The sailor is now under observation as to his mental condition. The case has been reported to H. H. D. Pierce, the American minister to Norway.

Negro Hanged to Pole.

Pine Bluff, Ark. — Ignoring the threats of Judge Grace of the Jefferson county circuit court, as he called them by name and pleaded with them to spare the life of Lovette Davis, a negro, and let the law take its course, 300 determined employes of the Cotton Belt shops here hanged Davis to a telephone pole. Davis entered the home of H. Knowlton Padgett, a Cotton Belt conductor, during his absence and attacked Miss Amy Holmes, Padgett's 16-year-old niece, who was alone and asleep in her bedroom. The lynchers made no effort to conceal their identity.

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted — where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL

to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Home Paper Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

JOB PRINTING We can do the finest class of printing, and we can do that class just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Wedding invitations, letter heads, bill heads, sale bills, statements, dodgers, cards, etc., all receive the same careful treatment—just a little better than seems necessary. Prompt delivery always.

Opposed to Slang.

Donald had been to Sunday school, and on coming home was asked what he had learned. The lesson was the story of Joseph, and the small learner was evidently very full of his subject.

"Oh," he said, "it was about a boy, and his brothers took him and put him in a hole in the ground; and then they killed another boy, and took the first boy's coat and dipped it in the blood of this boy and—"

"Oh, no, Donald, not another boy!" his sister interrupted, horrified. But Donald stood his ground.

"You mustn't, you mustn't," he said, when he had hauled them off, "attack your little companion this way. What has he done to deserve such harsh treatment?"

The four boys glowered sullenly while the one boy whimpered as he thought what would happen to him when the benevolent gentleman went on his way.

"Well," said one of the four at last, "he won't join the band of kindness our teacher wants to get up at school!"

CROPS ALMOST TOTALLY RUINED

MISSISSIPPI, ARKANSAS AND ALABAMA SUFFER FROM RAIN AND WIND STORMS.

TOWNS ARE UNDER WATER

Great Damage Done to Railroads in Several Places—Tornado Wrecks Many Houses—One Town Is an Island.

Memphis, Tenn.—Reports from the surrounding country bring advices of devastation by recent rain and wind storms. Mississippi and Arkansas seem to have suffered most. The Arkansas river is out of bank. In both states the crops are said to have been almost totally destroyed, while numbers of towns are under water and families have been driven to the roofs of their homes and the only means of transit is by boat. Great damage has been done to the railroads and in several places. A tornado passed over the northern portion of Mississippi, wrecking many houses.

Low Land Crops Destroyed.

Mobile, Ala.—Practically every river and creek in lower Alabama and Mississippi are at flood stage, resulting in practically drowning out all low land crops, the destruction of much cattle and the loss of timber. Reports indicate that the rains were heavy in Clarke, Wayne, Green and Jackson counties, Miss., and Monroe, Choctaw and Washington counties, Ala. In many of these counties the heavy rains were followed by hail storms, razing the growing crops and even damaging buildings.

Reports received here from Shubuta, Miss., are to the effect that the town is virtually an island, being cut off from the outside world, except for telephone and telegraph communication, which is yet intact.

GOV. HASKELL AGAIN INDICTED

He and Five Others Are Charged With Fraud in the Muskogee Town Lot Cases.

Tulsa, Okla.—Indictments charging fraud in the Muskogee town lot cases have been returned by the United States grand jury against Gov. Charles N. Haskell, F. B. Severs, W. T. Hutchins, C. W. Turner, A. Z. English and W. R. Eaton.

The accused men are charged with obtaining titles from the government to town lots in Muskogee by illegal methods. Bond in each case was fixed at $5,000, and was promptly furnished. It is thought the cases will be heard at an early date. This is the second indictment of Gov. Haskell in the Tulsa case.

Interest in the land fraud proceedings was heightened by an order from Judge Marshall citing William Stryker, editor of the Tulsa Democrat, to appear before the United States court at McAlester, June 14, to answer a charge of contempt of court. The order was issued on application of District Attorney W. H. Gregg, who alleges that Stryker has been publishing improper matter about the investigation.

FOILS HER ALLEGED CAPTOR

Chicago Girl Jumps Out of a Man's Automobile and Is Seriously Injured.

Chicago, Ill.—A leap from a swiftly moving automobile to escape from a man she alleges was taking her away from home, brought serious injuries to Miss Mary Kirschner, 22, of South Chicago.

The girl, upon reviving, said that she had a slight acquaintance with the captor. She had met him at a dance two years ago, she said. As she was walking home he drove up in his machine and offered to carry her. She accepted, she said, but the man drove his car swiftly for the open country despite her pleas to be allowed to get out. Just outside of the town, after the car had passed several groups of men who say they heard the girl scream, Miss Kirschner jumped out. The man tried to hold her, but only succeeded in tripping her so that she fell on her face in the road. The car later became stranded in a sand road and the driver was captured.

Whiskey Barrel Cheaper Than Man.

Chicago, Ill.—"Husbands in the form of human whiskey barrels should be cast adrift by their suffering wives," said Municipal Judge Girten to a woman whose husband was charged with failure to support his family. "When a wife has a husband who drinks heavily she should cast him aside and buy a whiskey barrel," said the court. "These cost but 90 cents each, and they would not be nearly so much bother about the house as a human whiskey barrel."

Newsboy Prevents Kidnapping.

Negaunee, Mich.—Forest fires started by a spark from a railroad engine destroyed a large part of the village of Dalton, 3,000,000 feet of lumber and a big mill.

LORIMER IS SENATOR

JOINT ASSEMBLY OF ILLINOIS SELECTS HIM.

Lorimer's Election Was Brought About by a Coalition of 53 Democratic and 55 Republican Votes.

Springfield, Ill.—Congressman William Lorimer of Chicago is the junior United States senator from Illinois. He was elected on the ninety-fifth ballot in the joint assembly by a coalition of 53 Democratic and 55 Republican votes, to fill the vacancy from Illinois which has existed in the senate since the term of Albert J. Hopkins, Republican primary candidate for re-election, expired on March 4. With votes to spare, the representative of the Sixth district of Illinois broke the senatorial deadlock which has existed in the forty-sixth general assembly of Illinois since last January.

Speaker Edward Shurtleff, elected to the chair of the house last January by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats, cast the vote in the joint assembly which insured Lorimer's election.

Brief Sketch of Lorimer.

Although William Lorimer's progress in politics has been steady and consistent from the time when he began securing city contracts for his firm of contractors to the day when he was elected to the United States senate, he never can be president, for he was born in England.

Mr. Lorimer's biography in the Congressional Directory is one of the briefest, about fifty words, and omits to mention that he first saw the light in 1861. At the age of five he was brought to this country by his parents. At the age of 12 he worked as a sign painter's apprentice. Later he labored at the stock yards, of which in after years he was to be known as the "boss." Next he gathered in the nickels on a street car. Meanwhile he had become a political factor. He became a contractor, was called the "blond boss" in the newspapers, and was counted on to deliver the packing house district to the Republican ticket. In 1892 he as defeated for a county office, but three years later he was elected to the fifty-fourth congress, where he has remained, with the exception of one term, ever since. The fifty-seventh congress saw him not, for he was beaten in his own stock yards district by one who was comparatively a mere stripling, John J. Feely, then in his 26th year. This was in the Second district. Mr. Lorimer then moved into the Sixth district, which promptly sent him back to Washington.

HOOP MILL BOILER EXPLODES

Five Men Were Killed, One Died of His Injuries and One Was Seriously Hurt.

Dowagiac, Mich.—Of the eight men who were in the Geesey Hoop mill here when the mill boiler exploded, five were killed, one died of his injuries, one was severely hurt and one miraculously escaped without injury, though the entire building tumbled about him like a house of cards. A heavy rain at the time of the explosion prevented the destruction of the ruins by fire and the cremation of the bodies.

The explosion threw pieces of wreckage in every direction as far as forty rods. The cause of the disaster has not been determined, but a boiler inspector, who examined the ruins, found that the boiler was an old one, the plate being 15-16 of an inch thick. The average pressure that has been maintained was 115 pounds. The Geeseys came here from Ohio 10 years ago.

ARRESTED ON WEDDING DAY

Young Man at Bay City, Mich., Accused of Murdering His Aged Grandmother.

Bay City, Mich.—Married in the morning to Miss Anna Kaiser, Roland Rich, 23, was in the afternoon arraigned on the charge of murdering his aged grandmother, Mrs. Christine Coryeon. The young man has always borne an excellent reputation.

Mrs. Coryeon, 70, was found dying in her bedroom with her skull fractured, three wounds on her head, indicating that she had been beaten with a club. The young bridegroom prisoner, who was first to report the discovery of his grandmother's plight, said that he found her lying in a pool of blood on the floor with the mattress of her bed and the clothing hanging on the walls in flames.

NITRO-GLYCERINE LETS GO

Two Men Killed and Much Property Damaged at Dupont Powder Co. at Howards, Pa.

Bradford, Pa.—Two men were killed and heavy property damage was inflicted when 250 quarters of nitro-glycerine exploded at the Dupont Powder Co.'s plant at Howards, three miles south of here. The dead: Daniel Bratt, Bullis Mills; William Hineman, Bullis Mills.

The cause of the accident is not known, as only the men who were killed were in the vicinity when the explosion occurred. The canning house was demolished, together with the factory building one-eighth of a mile away.

Diet Hints

By DR. T. J. ALLEN,

Health Culture and Food Specialist.

(Author of "Eating for a Purpose," etc.)

E. N. Y., Rheumatism.—I am subject to rheumatism, what diet would you advise?

Ans.—Exclude all meats, white bread and potatoes, unless baked. Eatfruitsor toast for breakfast, make whole wheat or rye bread a... nuts your staple for dinner, and have baked potatoes or prunes in the evening. Eat a whole meal of uncooked green ... etables occasionally, especially in spring. The more uncooked food you eat the better. Take half a lemon with a pint to a quart of hot water on rising, and a few apples and a tablespoonful of olive, or peanut oil morning and evening. Avoid sudden changes of temperature and exposure to drafts and cold dampness. Take temperate Turkish towel bath every morning. Exercise regularly in open air. Drink distilled water freely. Use the electric vibrator.

W. B. F., Hurried Eating.—We have a boy 12 years old of nervous temperament, four pounds under normal weight; he is very excitable and has trouble in school on this account. He eats fast and prefers mush and other foods that he can eat hurriedly. What is the best way to prevent the firm establishment of this condition.

Ans.—To improve his general health, first investigate judiciously, to assure yourself that you have a knowledge of all the causes of the boy's failure to develop properly. Children should have as large percentage of food as possible in dry form. Furnish no liquid at meal time and especially no tea or coffee. In this case, let the staple of the breakfast be, instead of mush, toast, with a little syrup or honey or one of the cereal preparations, which compels normal chewing, with a poached or whipped egg. For dinner whole wheat bread, not fresh, with baked potatoes or Saratoga chips and for supper prunes boiled only a little or baked potatoes or corn bread; a full meal of uncooked vegetables only or fresh fruit only, occasionally. For the following meal give corn bread with peanut butter, making up the shortage in proteid and fat. Give a spoonful of peanut or olive oil morning and evening, and preferably not more than two articles of food at once.

Children should not be allowed to acquire the improper habit of eating rapidly. We are a nervous people and therefore, dyspeptic, largely as a result of eating too much, because we eat too fast; and we eat too much and too fast because we are nervous. Food and thought are reciprocal.

Mrs. M. S., Apples.—You advise apples in the morning, but a single apple causes me great distress, bloating and headache, some times for two or three hours after eating. Should I eat apples when they cause me so much distress?

Ans.—You can no doubt remember when, as a child, say about ten years old, you could eat several apples without any unpleasant effects. If you were to eat nothing for four or five days (or until your liver returned to normal condition) you could eat apples as well as ever.

The apple contains malic acid, besides fruit sugar, and small percentages of nearly all the elements of nutrition. The distress is due to an abnormal condition of the stomach and liver, upon which the apple acts directly. No drug is more specific. Now in the child and normal person the liver and stomach are acting naturally, and apples cause no distress. If you were to eat an apple the first day after having eaten nothing, or on the second day of a fast the distress would be extreme. The liver during the fast is making an effort to regain its normal state, by using for house cleaning the vitality ordinarily spent in digestion, the cells in that organ not being over busy with their usual work of destroying the poisons which would otherwise destroy the entire organism. Now malic acid is, like other acids, such as carbolic, a disinfectant or poison killer, a germicide, and as more work is going on in the house cleaning operation in the liver, the apple causes an extraordinary throwing off of gas, causing this pressure in the stomach and as the abnormal activities of the liver when burdened with poisonous waste from the alimentary canal are reflected through the sympathetic nervous system, over the eyebrows, you have this familiar headache, but after four or five days eating nothing, or only other fruit, say grapes, which would be very good in this case, the effects of the apples would be much less oppressive and in time you would not notice it at all, as in the case of a child whose liver is not yet somewhat debilitated as yours must be.

It seems plain that the effect of the apple is in the direction of the purifying process carried on by nature. Fruit acids are the natural blood purifiers, especially desirable in spring, but beneficial at all seasons. In the morning nature is most active, and is throwing off poisons, just as she is in childhood, causing many children's diseases which are means of eliminating hereditary effects of wrong feeding and of overfeeding in the first few years of life.

Begin by eating a very little apple in the morning, and increase the amount gradually until by and by it will cause you no distress to eat two or three of them. Apples are for you particularly adapted on account of this natural stimulation of the liver, and general purifying qualities.

H. L. B., Mixing Foods.—Should one eat acid fruits and proteids at the same meal, pork and apples for example?

Ans.—Apples digest in an hour, pork in four or five hours. The two foods are first mixed by the movement of the stomach. Now the apples must be retained longer than if they were there alone, and thus spoil the meal, more or less; or, the pork must pass out with the apples (if the apple is much the larger portion) hours too soon for proper digestion. Of course the first change in proteid food (meat, nuts, fish, beans, cereal gluten, etc.) is coagulation by the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice, in the stomach; but the natural process differs somewhat from the action of fruit acids on albumen. No two acids act exactly alike, and digestion is an extremely delicate process. We know that an invalid's digestion would be upset by apples and beans together, and the healthy person would waste vitality in disposing of such a mixture. Of course some mixtures are especially bad, as everyone of weak digestion knows, but some are less objectionable. The time of milk, eggs (uncooked) and toast in the stomach is about the same and their chemical relations are harmonious, though no two foods digest exactly alike and it has been shown that the character of the secretions is determined by the peculiarities of each food. The breaking up of the coarse casein curds of cow's milk by toast is beneficial. All nuts, all fruits, all cereals, most vegetables, are harmonious in their classes, but meat and milk, fruit and vegetables, meats and fruits are particularly inharmonious.

NAG HAD PLENTY OF SPEED.

Veteran Trainer's Story of "Cripple" That Made a Show of the Rest of His Field.

A group of horsemen were talking "shop" in the lobby of the Raleigh. The conversation turned to events of long ago, and Theodore F. Coles of Charlottesville, Va., trainer of thoroughbreds, whose first experience with the runner dates back to the days shortly following the war, told this one:

"There was a horse called Toana—you remember him, probably, for he started in races at Gloucester. He was a fast horse, and could beat pretty nearly anybody's animal for six furlongs. Long-continued racing had its effect on the horse, and in his latter days his legs gave way. Repeated applications of the firing iron helped to keep him going, but his legs always were under suspicion and required the most careful attention. One day they brought him down from Guttenberg and entered him in a race. The horse opened in the betting at long odds, but was backed off the slates before the bugle called 'em to the post. Joe Bergen, who afterward was killed in a race, had the mount. Joe didn't know anything about the underpinning of his mount until he got to the post, when he saw Starter Pettingill looking down at Toana's front legs. On one of them he wore a bandage, through which the iodine had soaked, and out of the top of the bandage oozed vaseline.

"'Joe,' said Pettingill, 'that horse is ready to break down. When I drop the flag pull him up; I don't want you to get killed.'

"Joe suggested that Toana was carrying a lot of money, but Pettingill was obdurate, and when he sent the horses away Bergen did as he was told and pulled up. He let Toana gallop after the field for a quarter of a mile, and then, finding that Toana was going easily and apparently sound, he gave the horse his head, and Toana didn't do a thing but overtake that field from the head of the stretch, and go on and win. Poor Joe met his death riding just such a dicky-legged horse."—Washington Post.

Moonshiners Were Children.

A party of revenue officers who returned from the notorious York settlement in the "dark corner" of South Carolina, reported they had found three children, none more than ten years old, making brandy with a still they had constructed themselves.

This is one of the most out-of-the-way sections in the country, and when the officers made the raid they found little apparent effort to hide the stills. The children evidently had seen the work going on all their lives and had been brought up to look on it as an honorable means of making a livelihood.

The still used by the children consisted of a wooden bucket for a "cap," a pair of kegs for "doublers" and a bored poplar limb for a "worm," through which brandy was trickling into a beer bottle.

Saving Br'er Possum.

"But Uncle Rufus," said the northern visitor in the land of cotton and yam, "if you colored folks knew that baked possum was far superior to broiled chicken it is a wonder you didn't tell about it?"

Uncle Rufus removed his pipe and laughed.

"No, indeed, boss," he chuckled. "Dat's de very reason we didn't tell about et. Marse Taft found et out quick enuf. Ef de white folks had known all along dat baked possum was es good es broiled chicken der wouldn't be a possum in de whole Dixie by dis time, sah."

SHE DID IT.

Mrs. Fat—So your husband has stopped smoking? It must have taken considerable will power?

Mrs. Thinne—All I had.

Our Wonderful Language.

Out of sight in that gown, isn't she?" observed a gentleman in the balcony, pointing to Mrs. de Koltay, who occupied a front seat in one of the lower tier of boxes.

"Out of sight? Well, hardly. It strikes me it is the other way about," responded his companion dryly.

Which goes to show the elasticity of the American language, which says one thing and means another. It also shows—but, upon second thought, we must respectfully but firmly decline going into any further details.—Bohemian.

AFTER SUFFERING ONE YEAR

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Milwaukee, Wis. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman, and I would like to tell the whole world of it. I suffered from female trouble and fearful pains in my back. I had the best doctors and they all decided that I had a tumor in addition to my female trouble, and advised an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman and I have no more backache. I hope I can help others by telling them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — MRS. EMMA IMSE, 833 First St., Milwaukee, Wis.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

FAIR EXCHANGE.

A New Back for an Old One—How it Can be Done in Emporium.

The back aches at times with a dull, indiscribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Emporium residents would do well to profit by the following example:

Mrs. Geo. E. Weiss, 442, N. St. Michael St., St. Marys, Pa., says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney complaint and backache. I had headaches and dizzy spells, was unable to get up without supporting myself and could not bend or stoop without suffering intensely. The kidney secretions were also unnatural and plainly showed my kidneys were disordered. I became very much discouraged, but finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney pills on a neighbor's recomendation. My strength and ambition soon returned and the pains and aches disappeared. I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York. sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Pure Maple Sugar and Syrup, at C. B. Howard & Co's.

The Best on Earth.

Protection against Accidents and Sickness is an absolute necessity. It costs but $5.00 a year for $15.00 weekly benefits, and $2,000 death claim. The only policy paying such liberal benefits. This Company also writes policies for $10.00 and $25.00 per year. Liberal commissions to agents, by the German Commercial Accident Co., Phil'a, Pa. W. R. Sizer, Gen'l Agent, Sizerville, Pa. C. R Husted of Emporium, is a representative of the Company. Drop him a postal—He will do the balance. In case of sudden injury this Company provides temporary relief to the amount of $25.00, if notified by wire of an accident. 17-ly.

Men Past Fifty in Danger.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy especially for enlarged prostrate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris, Dexter, Ky., writes: "Up to a year ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostrate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint." Sold by all druggists.

Stomach Troubles

Many remarkable cures of stomach troubles have been effected by Chamberlains Stomach and Liver Tablets. One man who had spent over two thousand dollars for medicine and treatment was cured by a few boxes of these tablets. Price, 25c. Samples free at Taggart's drug store.

Sore Nipples.

Any mother who has had experience with this distressing ailment will be pleased to know that a cure may be effected by applying Chamberlain's Salve as soon as the child is done nursing. Wipe it off with a soft cloth before allowing the babe to nurse. Many trained nurses use this salve with best results. For sale at Taggart's.

To avoid serious results take Foley's Kidney Remedy at the first sign of kidney or bladder disorder such as backache, urinary irregularities, exhaustion, and you will soon be well. Commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy to-day. Sold by all druggists.

If you have dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble, you must help the stomach do its work by taking something that can and will digest the food for the stomach. Kodol will do this, and it is the only thing we know that will. It is sold by all druggists.

Chronic Rheumatism.

This is the variety of rheumatism that usually attacks the larger joints, knees, hips and shoulders. It is aggravated by cold and damp weather, and for this reason a man afflicted with it can often tell changes in the weather. Chamberlains liniment applied freely and with vigorous rubbing relieves the pain and makes sleep and rest possible. It will also effect a cure, but will not prevent a reoccurrence of the disease. For sale at Taggart's.

Many of our citizons are drifting towards Bright's disease by neglecting symtoms of kidney and bladder trouble which Foley's Kidney Remedy will quickly cure. Sold by all druggists.

Colds that hang on weaken the constitution and develop into consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar cures persistent coughs that refuses to yield to other treatment. Do not experiment with untried remedies is delay may result in the cold settling on your lungs.

For inflamation of the bladder, backache and weak back, take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Send your name to E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, for a free trial box. Sold by all druggists.

One of Edison's Jokes.

Edison was always a great joke player. Those ones he seemed to enjoy most were like the one he worked on one of the laziest operators in the office where he was once employed. One night, when this fellow thought his day's work was over and was getting ready to go home, Edison slipped around to the office switchboard, made a connection with the lazy fellow's telegraph key, called him down to the table and, supplied with an old newspaper, proceeded to send Mr. Lazy a long lot of presumably Associated Press stuff from New York. Edison was a lightning sender (as well as receiver) from almost the beginning of his career, and the way he made that fellow work for two solid hours was a joy. After wearing him completely out, making him receive and copy the equivalent of about three or four newspaper columns, Edison suddenly came from behind the switchboard, exposed the joke to the poor fellow and wound up by pelting him on the nose with the newspaper he had been sending from.—Pearson's.

Scolded and Comforted.

At a lunch given in his honor Sven Hedin read an amusing letter written to him by Alfred Nobel at a time when Hedin was still a student, but already filled with a longing to explore unknown Asia. He applied to the government for funds, but the answer was so slow in coming that he wrote to Nobel, who promptly replied: "I take no interest in these geographical exploration trips. In fact, I regard them as an anachronism. Men communicate with each other today from one end of the earth to the other by means of telegraph and post. There are in Asia, too, explorers and savants who are surely better qualified than you, sir, to study and describe their native country. I therefore believe that you could make better use of your ambitious impulses than by undertaking trips to Asia. But in order that you may see that I do not always act as I think I send you a sum which may serve as the best confutation of my own convictions."

Squandering Ability.

Doing the lower when the higher is possible constitutes one of the greatest tragedies of human life. The squandering of money seems a wicked thing when we think of the good that might be done with it. But what about the wicked waste of ability, the deliberate throwing away of 50, 75, perhaps 90 per cent of one's success possibly just because he never trained himself to use it, to grasp it with such vigor and power that he can fling his life into his career with its maximum effectiveness? Most people take hold of life with the tips of their fingers. They never get hold of the life proposition with that grip and tenacity of purpose and vigor of determination which do things worth while. They just hang on the outskirts of things, playing upon the surface of their possibilities without ever getting down into the marrow of their being, where efficiency and power dwell.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

Exclusive Perfumes.

The late Dr. Andrew Wynter in a charming article on perfumes suggested the desirability of every lady having her own special and self prepared perfume. The custom, however, would have its disadvantages. More than one sensational story might be mentioned wherein the heroine or villain was saved or unmasked, as the case might be, by the recognition of a distinctive scent. In "Diplomacy" the denouement is effected by the telltale perfume of the adventuress being detected in the dispatch box she had rifled. As a matter of history, the assassins of the oriental sovereign Yezdijird were discovered by one of them smelling of the perfume with which the robes of the murdered king had been redolent.—London Globe.

Hope.

"Have you seen the account in this morning's papers about Dr. Cutting having brought a dead man back to life?"

"No. Did he do that?"

"Yes. It was a wonderful demonstration of his skill."

"Well, I shall be more hopeful now than I have been for some time. If he can bring the dead back to life he may be able to bring back the book he borrowed from me about two years ago."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Begging In Paris.

Giving up his profession, a Paris beggar offers his "pitch" for sale. His advertisement reads: "For sale, present holder retiring to the country, good situation for one legged man; neighborhood of the Etoile; hours of work, 2 p. m. to 7 p. m.; receipts, $2.40 to $3.15; regular passersby, children and strangers; or any infirmity would suit."

A Feminine Reason.

"But," asked the first co-ed, "why did you elect to take up the study of German instead of French?"

"Oh," replied the other, "the German professor was so awfully handsome, you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

An Ungallant Rascal.

"I suppose," said the angular spinster, "that you never had a romance?"

"Dat's where youse is wrong," replied the unlaundered hobo. "I wunst had a sweetheart wot wuz a dead ringer fer youse."

"And did she die?" asked the angular spinster as she helped him to another hunk of pie.

"No, ma'am," answered the hobo. "When leap year come round she asked me t' marry her—an' I run away from home."—Chicago News.

Dead Heat.

A schoolmaster who is in the habit of selecting extracts from his morning newspaper for dictation exercise read the other day a passage in which occurred the term "dead heat."

"Jones," said he, addressing an inattentive pupil, "what do you mean by 'dead heat?'"

"Please, sir," the youngster replied, "it's the heat of the place bad people go to when they're dead."—London Schoolmaster.

Giving Advice.

Professor—What is the matter with Mr. ——?

Learned Student—He is seriously afflicted with a paroxysmal inflammation of the vermiform appendix.

Voice From the Rear Seat—Aw, cut it out!

Caustic.

"Does your representative in congress entertain much?"

"No," answered the caustic constituent, "he doesn't entertain; he only amuses."—Washington Star

His Definition.

George Metzger, Jr., and family are as busy as a bushel of bees moving into their new home, which certainly is one of the most complete in this county. It's a dandy, and reflects great credit on Mr. Metzger's judgment and energy.

W. B. Thompson and family are today moving into the residence vacated by Mr. Metzger, on Maple street.

Mob Rule.

The street car strike in Philadelphia has assumed a serious position, the strikers burning cars, placing dynamite on the tracks, assulting motormen, &c. At this late day it is time the strong arm of law should enter into such altercations and stop them, even if the entire National Guard be called out. Compulsory arbitration should be the law.

Mathew Byrnes and son have returned from a pleasant visit with relatives at Toronso, this being Mr. Byrnes' former home and this was his first visit there in 22 years.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

FRENCH.

Miss Fannie French, eldest daughter of Mrs. Eva Warner-French, died at the family residence at Austin, last Tuesday, aged about 21 years. Miss French, in company with W. S. Walker and family, spent the winter in Arizona in hopes that her health would be restored, but the dread consumption had gained such headway that it was impossible to check its course. Deceased was always of a jovial disposition and was the life and heart of all social gatherings. She was a member of the Coudersport High School Alumni, having graduated in the class of 1905. Mrs. French, the mother, is well known at Emporium, having lived here for several years, always making her home with her uncle, Mr. Riley Warner and family. This is truly an afflicted family and the sincere sympathy of all who know Mrs. French, is surely with her. About five years ago, Walter, the second eldest son died and three years ago the husband and father, Dr. C. F. French died, and this year, within a few months, she has lost a son, Carl, and now her daughter, Miss Fannie. The funeral services will be held at the home at Austin on Friday morning at 9:00 o'clock, after which the funeral party will proceed to Coudersport where interment will be made. Mrs. F. G. Judd, of this place, a cousin of Mrs French, will attend the funeral.

THE LOVES of the LADY ARABELLA

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL

(Copyright, 1906, Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

SYNOPSIS.

At 14 years of age Admiral Sir Peter Hawkshaw's nephew, Richard Glyn, fell deeply in love at first sight with Lady Arabella Stormont, who spurned his attentions. The lad, an orphan, was given a berth as midshipman on the Ajax by his uncle. Giles Vernon, nephew of Sir Thomas Vernon, became the boy's pal. They attended a theater where Hawkshaw's nephew saw Lady Arabella. Vernon met Philip Overton, next in line for Sir Thomas Vernon's estate. They started a duel which was interrupted. Vernon, Overton and Hawkshaw's nephew found themselves attracted by pretty Lady Arabella. The Ajax in battle defeated French warships in the Mediterranean. Richard Glyn got £2,000 prize money. He was called home by Lady Hawkshaw as he was about to "blow in" his earnings with Vernon. At a Hawkshaw party Glyn discovered that Lady Arabella was a poor but persistent gambler. He talked much with her cousin Daphne. Lady Arabella again showed love for gaming. Later she held Glyn and Overton prisoners, thus delaying the duel.

CHAPTER VI.

As Overton had said, the meeting was delayed exactly 24 hours.

My courage always has an odd way of disappearing when I am expecting to use it, although I must say, when I have had actual occasion for it I have always found it easily at hand. I cannot deny that I was very much frightened for Giles on the morning of the meeting, and, to add to my misery, I heard that Overton was considered one of the best shots in England.

The dreary breakfast gulped down; the postchaise rattling up to the door—I had hoped until the last moment that it would not come; the bumping along the road in the cool, bright summer morning; the gruesome, long, narrow box that lay on the front seat of the chaise; the packet of letters which Giles had given me and which seemed to weigh a hundred tons in my pocket—all these were so many horrors to haunt the memory forever. But I must say that, apparently, the misery was all mine; for I never saw Giles Vernon show so much as by the flicker of an eyelash that he was disturbed in any way.

About half way from the meeting-ground we left the highway and turned into a by-road; and scarcely had we gone half a mile when we almost drove into a broken-down chaise, and standing on the roadside among the furze bushes were the coachman, the surgeon—a most bloody-minded man I always believed him—Mr. Buxton and Overton.

Our chaise stopped, and Giles, putting his head out of the window, said, pleasantly: "Good-morning, gentlemen; you have had an accident, I see."

"A bad one," replied Mr. Buxton, who saw that their chaise was beyond help, and who, as he said afterward, was playing for a place in our chaise, not liking to walk the rest of the distance.

Giles jumped out and so did I, and the most courteous greetings were exchanged.

The two drivers, as experts, examined the broken chaise, and agreed there was no patching it up for service; one wheel was splintered.

Mr. Buxton looked at Giles meaningly, and then at me, and Giles whispered to me:

"Offer to take 'em up. By Jupiter, they shall see we are no shirkers."

Which I did, and, to my amazement, in a few moments we were all lumbering along the road; Overton and Mr. Buxton on the back seat, and Giles and I with our backs to the horses, while the surgeon was alongside the coachman on the box.

Nothing could exceed the politeness between the two principals, about the seats as about everything else. Overton was with difficulty persuaded to take the back seat. Mr. Buxton seated himself there without any introduction. (I hope it will never again be my fortune to negotiate so delicate an affair as a meeting between gentlemen with one so much my superior in rank as Mr. Buxton.)

"May I ask, Mr. Overton, if you prefer the window down or up?" asked Giles, with great deference.

"Either, dear sir," responded Overton. "I believe it was up when you kindly invited us to enter."

"True; but you may be sensitive to the [illegible] and may catch cold."

A [illegible] Mr. Buxton grinned in a hearti[illegible]er. The window remained u[illegible].

We [illegible] crowded with the two pisto[illegible]s and the surgeon's box of instruments, which to me appeared more appalling than the pistols.

At last we reached the spot—a small, flat place under a sweetly-blooming hawthorn hedge, with some verdant oaks at either end.

Giles and Overton were so scrupulous about taking precedence of each other in getting out of the chaise that I had strong hopes the day would pass before they came to a decision; but Mr. Buxton finally got out himself and pulled his man after him, and then we were soon marking off the ground, and I was feeling that mortal sickness which had attacked me the first time I was under fire in the Ajax.

Overton won the toss for position, and at that I could have lain down and wept.

Our men were placed 20 paces apart, with their backs to each other. At the word "one" they were to turn, advance and fire between the words "two" and "three." This seemed to me the most murderous arrangement I had ever heard of.

The stories I had so lately heard about Overton's proficiency with the pistol made me think, even if he did not kill Giles intentionally, he would attempt some expert trick with the pistol, which would do the business equally well. I knew Giles to be a very poor shot, and concluded that he, through awkwardness, would probably put an end to Overton, and I regarded them both as doomed men.

I shall never forget my feelings as we were placing our men, or after Mr. Buxton and I had retired to a place under the hedge. Just as we had selected our places, Giles, looking over his shoulder, said in his usual cool, soft voice:

"Don't you think, gentlemen, you had better move two or three furlongs off? Mr. Overton may grow excited and fire wild."

I thought this a most dangerous as well as foolish speech, and calculated to irritate Overton; and for the first time I saw a gleam of anger in his eye, which had hitherto been mild, and even sad. For I believed then, and knew afterward, that his mind was far from easy on the subject of dueling. I wish to say here that I also believe, had he been fully convinced that dueling was wrong, he would have declined to fight, no matter what the consequence had been; for I never knew a man with more moral courage. But at the time, although his views were changing on the subject, they were not wholly changed.

Mr. Buxton, without noticing Giles' speech, coughed once or twice, and then waited two or three minutes before giving the word.

The summer sun shone brilliantly, turning the distant river to a silver ribbon. A thrush rioted musically in the hawthorn hedge. All things spoke of life and hope, but to my sinking heart insensate Nature only mocked us. I heard, as in a dream, the words "one, two, three" slowly uttered by Mr. Buxton, and saw, still as in a dream, both men turn and raise their pistols.

Overton's was discharged first; then, as he stood like a man in marble waiting for his adversary's fire, Giles raised his pistol and, taking deliberate aim at the bird still singing in the hedge, brought it down. It was a mere lucky shot, but Overton took off his hat and bowed to the ground, and Giles responded by taking off his hat and showing a hole through the brim.

"You see, Mr. Glyn," said Overton, "I have done according to my promise. It was not my intention to kill Mr. Vernon, but only to frighten him"—which speech Mr. Buxton and I considered as a set-off to Giles' speech just before shots were exchanged.

The two principals remained where they were, while Mr. Buxton and I retired behind the hedge to confer—or, rather, for Mr. Buxton to say to me:

"Another shot would be damned nonsense. My man is satisfied, or shall be, else I am a Dutch trooper. Certainly you have nothing to complain of."

I was only too happy to accept this solution, but more out of objection to being browbeaten by Mr. Buxton than anything else, I said:

"We shall require an explanation of your principal's observation just now, sir."

"Shall you?" angrily asked Mr. Buxton, exactly in the tone he used when the carpenter's mate complained that the jack-o'-the-dust had cribbed his best saw. "Then I shall call your man to account in regard to his late observation, and we can keep them popping away at each other all day. But this is no slaughter pen, Mr. Glyn, nor am I the ship's butcher, and I shall take my man back to town and give him a glass of spirits and some breakfast, and I advise you to do the same. You are very young, Mr. Glyn, and you still need to know a thing or two." Then, advancing from behind the hedge, he said in the dulcet tone he used when the admiral asked him to have wine:

"Gentlemen, Mr. Glyn and myself, after conferring, have agreed that the honor of our principals is fully established, and that the controversy is completely at an end. Allow me to congratulate you both"—and there was a general hand-shaking all around. I noticed that the coachman, who was attentively watching the performance, looked slightly disappointed at the turn of affairs.

Straightway, we all climbed into the chaise, and I think I shall be believed when I say that our return to town was more cheerful than our departure had been.

We all agreed to dine together at Mivart's the next night, and I saw no reason to believe that there was any remnant of ill feeling between the two late combatants.

I returned to Berkeley Square that afternoon, with much uneasiness concerning my meeting and future intercourse with Lady Arabella; for I had not seen her since the occurrence in Sir Peter's study. Although my affection for her was forever killed by that box on the ear she gave me, yet no man can see a woman shamed before him without pain, and the anticipation of Lady Arabella's feelings when she saw me troubled me. But this was what actually happened when we met. Lady Arabella was sitting in the Chinese drawing room, her lapdog in her arms, surrounded by half a dozen fops. Lady Hawkshaw had left the room for a moment, and Arabella had taken the opportunity of showing her trick of holding out her dog's paws and kissing his nose, which she called measuring love-ribbon. This performance never failed to throw gentlemen into ecstasies. Daphne sat near, with her work in her lap and a book on the table by her, smiling rather disdainfully. I do not think the cousins loved each other.

On my appearance in the drawing room I scarcely dared look toward Lady Arabella; but she called out familiarly:

"Come here, Dicky!" (her habit of calling me Dicky annoyed me very much) "and let me show you how I kiss Fido's nose; and if you are a good boy, and tell me all about the meeting this morning, perhaps I may hold your paws out and kiss your nose"—at which all the gentlemen present laughed loudly. I never was so embarrassed in my life, and my chagrin was increased when, suddenly dropping the dog, she rushed at me, seized my hands, and, holding them off at full arm's length, imprinted a sounding smack upon my nose, and laughingly cried out: "One yard!" (Smack on my nose again.) "Two yards!" (Smack.) "Three yards!" (Smack.)

At this juncture I recovered my presence of mind enough to seize her around the waist and return her smacks with interest full in the mouth. And at this stage of the proceedings Lady Hawkshaw appeared upon the scene.

In an instant an awful hush fell upon us. For my part I felt my knees sinking under me, and I had that feeling of mortal sickness which I had felt in my first sea-fight, and at the instant I thought my friend's life in jeopardy. Lady Arabella stood up, for once, confused. The gentlemen all retired gracefully to the wall, in order not to interrupt the proceedings, and Daphne fixed her eyes upon me, sparkling with indignation.

Lady Hawkshaw's voice when she spoke, seemed to come from the tombs of the Pharaohs.

"What is this countrytom I see?" she asked. And nobody answered a word.

James, the tall footman, stood behind her; and to him she turned, saying in a tone like thunder:

"Jeames, go and tell Sir Peter Hawkshaw that I desire his presence immediately upon a matter of the greatest importance."

The footman literally ran downstairs, and presently Sir Peter came puffing up from the lower regions. Lady Arabella had recovered herself then enough to hum a little tune and to pat the floor with her satin slipper.

Sir Peter walked in, surveyed us all, and turned pale. I verily believe he thought Arabella had been caught cheating at cards.

WORLD'S CITIES HARD TO KILL.

Rome Twice Burned, Six Times Starved—Paris' Eight Sieges.

Few of the world's great cities have not faced, at one time or another, total destruction. But a city is hard to kill.

Take Rome, for instance. She has been swept by pestilence no fewer than ten times. She has been twice burned and six times driven to submission by starvation. Perhaps it is on account of her great vitality that she is called the Eternal city.

Paris has gone through eight sieges, ten famines, two plagues and one fire which devastated it.

Constantinople has been burned out nine times and has suffered from four plagues and five sieges. In addition, she has been ruled by monarchs who were worse than a plague. Yet Constantinople still flourishes.

London has been decimated five times by plagues, in addition to visitations of typhus, cholera and other epidemics. She has been burned more or less severely several times.—Stray Stories.

What He Wanted.

"Sir," said the agent, addressing the man who had opened the door in answer to his knock. "I am introducing a patent burglar alarm and thought perhaps you might be interested."

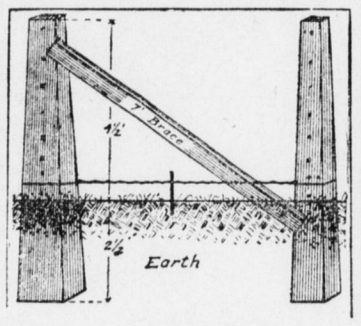
"Well, I'm not," growled the man on the other side of the door. "What I want is a device that will put burglars to sleep instead of alarming them."

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

BRACING A CEMENT END POST

How to Construct a Pillar That Will Not Give Way in Stretching a Fence.

In order to brace an end post securely, first plant the post 3½ feet deep, says a writer in Indiana Farmer. Be sure that the dirt is well tamped around the post. Packing the first foot well is the most essential thing in making a post stand firm. Lean the post back about three inches. This leaning causes the post to pull to the ground instead of lifting out of the ground, as it will do if it leans the other way. Then cut a notch about half way between the ground and top of the post for end of brace to rest in. Then plant a smaller post about six feet in front of end post for foot of brace to rest against, placing top side of lower end of brace six inches below the surface of the ground with a flat rock under it (to keep the brace from settling in the ground). Now pass three strands of well-galvanized No. 9 wire around the two posts, making six strands of wire to twist together. Fasten the ends of the wire together, so they will not slip. Take a rod about 18 inches long, place between the six strands of wire and twist them together. Do not neglect to twist them tight, for this is the secret in making the posts stay in position. If my instructions are followed the fence stretcher is not made that will move the end post one inch at the top.



Brace for Cement End Post.

POTATO CULTURE PROFITABLE

Certain Sections of Country Where Irish Potato Is Best Growing Crop on the Farm.

There are certain sections of the United States which are, owing to climatic conditions, combined with the nature of the soil, better adapted to the growing of the Irish potato than probably any other farm product, and as this crop can be marketed at remunerative prices on an average of four years out of five, the farmers of what is known as the "potato districts" rely almost entirely upon this product for their money crop; therefore, it becomes necessary for them to secure as great a quantity of tubers as possible from each acre of land planted, from a minimum amount of labor and expense, in order to get the greatest percentage of profit obtainable.

The soil best adapted to growing the potato is a sandy loam well supplied with vegetable matter. This kind of a soil is not available in all cases and we have to be content with that of a heavier nature. In that case it is advisable to turn under a sod of some character, preferably clover, which will serve to keep the land in a mellow condition and retain the moisture longer than if the soil should become more compact.

More attention every year is being given to the selection of seed, and the most successful potato growers have long ago discarded the using of culls for seed potatoes. Experiments have shown that an ordinary size potato cut in quarters will often produce 25 to 30 per cent. more salable potatoes per acre than when cut with only one eye to the piece.

If proper precautions are taken and treatments begun in time there are none of the enemies of the potato, which, if properly handled, cannot be reduced to a nonentity as far as damage to the crops is concerned.

For Slugs or Snails.

Salt is a sure remedy for the slugs or snails, says the Ohio Farmer. Discretion, however, is always necessary in its use, as it is liable to kill or injure plants to which it is applied at all freely. We find ordinary air slacked lime just as sure to kill slugs as salt, and probably much safer. Slugs are night feeders, leaving their hiding-places and feasting on the leaves first reached (usually the lower ones) shortly after sundown. To destroy the pest dust the lower parts of the foliage of affected crops lightly with the air-slacked lime. The effect is immediate. Next morning you will find the remnants of the dissolved slugs.

Value of the Berry Patch.

Where an old berry patch has been cleaned out is fine for a crop of melons or potatoes. Then it should be sown to cow peas or clover. Either of these crops are fine for storing up fertility in the soil. An orchard may be started on reasonably thin soil if the proper care is given to store up plenty of fertility for the use of the trees producing their crops of fruit.

Fighting Tuberculosis.

Three large fraternal orders are at present conducting sanatoria for their tuberculous members. The Royal League, the first order to take up this form of work in the United States, has a sanatorium at Black Mountain, North Carolina. The Modern Woodmen have recently opened a sanatorium at Colorado Springs, and the Knights of Pythias, one at the East Las Vegas, New Mexico. The Royal Arcanum and the Brotherhood of American Yeomen will consider propositions at their coming grand councils for the erection of similar institutions.

Three Meals at Once.

"Now, Mary," said her mistress, "you must come to the door of the drawing room and say: 'Breakfast is ready, and supper is ready, but dinner is served.'"

The newly corralled domestic inwardly digested the concise instructions, and that evening convulsed the guests who were awaiting the announcement of dinner by stepping between the portieres, dropping a courtesy and repeating: "Breakfast is eady and supper is ready, but dinner e se r-ved!"

THINK HARD

It Pays to Think About Food.

The unthinking life some people lead often causes trouble and sickness, illustrated in the experience of a lady in Fond Du Lac, Wis.

"About four years ago I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, always having eaten whatever I liked, not thinking of the digestible qualities. This indigestion caused palpitation of the heart so badly I could not walk up a flight of stairs without sitting down once or twice to regain breath and strength.

"I became alarmed and tried dieting, wore my clothes very loose, and many other remedies, but found no relief.

"Hearing of the virtues of Grape-Nuts and Postum, I commenced using them in place of my usual breakfast of coffee, cakes, or hot biscuit, and in one week's time I was relieved of sour stomach and other ills attending indigestion. In a month's time my heart was performing its functions naturally and I could climb stairs and hills and walk long distances.

"I gained ten pounds in this short time, and my skin became clear and I completely regained my health and strength. I continue to use Grape-Nuts and Postum for I feel that I owe my good health entirely to their use. "There's a Reason."

"I like the delicious flavour of Grape-Nuts and by making Postum according to directions, it tastes similar to mild high grade coffee."

INDUSTRY AND MECHANICS

SOME FACTS ON RADIUM.

Demonstration Made of Only Specimens of Precious Element in City of Washington.

An interesting demonstration was made recently in Washington by Dr. A. K. P. Harvey, who exhibited the only specimens of radium that are owned in that city. They weigh only 12 millograms and are worth about $1,200. The most powerful of the three is bromide of radium, which has a radio-activity of 1,800,000. It is powerful enough to cure cancer or to take a photograph through 12 inches of granite.

Dr. Harvey after exhibiting the specimens spoke on their properties. He said that radium had proved invaluable in the treatment of cancer and such skin diseases as lupus. He sketched the history of radium in the few years that it has been known, saying that the credit of the original discovery belonged to the French scientist, Baccaral. He had identified and described the element, but it was Mme. Curie and her husband who first succeeded in separating it in practical quantities from German pitchblende.

MADE FROM EARTH.

Frederic Campbell, Sc.D., Tells How Satellites Can Be Formed by Shooting Into the Air.

All of the eight planets which constitute the sun's family are not equally supplied with satellites or moons. As far as we know, Mercury and Venus have none; Mars has two; Uranus, four; Jupiter, seven; Saturn, ten; the earth and Neptune, one each. A consideration of the evening splendor of a world that has more moons than one might lead us to attempt to provide ourselves with another moon. All bodies thrown into the air fall back; but we are increasing the power of our explosives, and may some day reach the point where we can shoot a sphere into space in such a way and carry such speed that it will, like our present moon, sustain itself in space by constantly revolving around the earth. If we should shoot a projectile horizontally at 37,000 feet a second it would fly off into space and never return. But if we should shoot it at 26,300 feet a second it would then become a permanent satellite and would revolve about the earth, returning to its starting point in one hour and 23 minutes. This would make night interesting in contributing greater supplies of moonlight; but equally in providing a luminary hastening across the sky more swiftly than anything except a meteor. And, if we could do this with one body, we could do it with as many more as we chose to fling out into space. Thus we might come to possess more satellites than even Saturn. Two things, however, forbid the hope that we can ever accomplish these things; first, there is no ground for belief that we ever shall possess sufficient explosive power; and second, even if we had, the earth's atmosphere, through which the new satellite must at least make its start, would immediately lessen its speed and perhaps cause its ultimate return to the ground.

Solder for Iron and Brass.

The following method of soldering iron and brass will be found successful if the metals are not to be subjected to extreme heat after they are soldered together. First make the iron clean and bright; then tin it by means of a soldering bolt with a little tin solder and a small portion of clean rosin as a flux. This proceeding will require some degree of patience and time before it will be properly accomplished. The iron should be kept as warm as possible during the process of tinning. When this is done clean the piece of brass as bright and free from any dirt as possible; then tin it over with the solder, using rosin as a flux. Now, if convenient, place the two pieces of metal to be united in a vise; place a small portion of solder between with a little rosin. Use the blow-pipe. As the solder gets gradually hotter between the two pieces of metal the vise should be drawn tighter, so as to insure a close joint.

EFFECTIVE ROPE FASTENER.

No Knots Are Needed with This device and Its Use Means Big Saving of Time.

No knots are needed with the novel and effective rope fastener that has just been patented. Therefore, as there is nothing to tie up or untie, its use means a big saving of time. The fastener is shaped like a letter "W" with an inverted "V" on the bottom. This makes three slots, two above and one below, and to fasten a rope the latter is brought over one of the upper slots, down the lower one and up again, over the other arm of the W. Wound over the fastener in this way the rope cannot slip, but will hold its position as firmly as if tied. This device has a spring hook at the apex of the middle section of the W by which it can be attached to any projection. The fastener will be folund very useful on sailboats or for hanging up clothes lines. The average person ties a knot that requires much time and patience to untie. With this fastener he is saved the trouble of making and opening weird knots.

AN EXTENSIBLE GAS BRACKET

One That Can Be Readily Raised or Lowered as Desired—For Gas or Electricity.

Every household in which gas or electricity is used as an illuminant would welcome the addition of the extensible fixture shown in the illustration below, invented by a Chicago man. In too many houses the gas brackets are placed so close to the ceiling that sufficient light does not reach a person who may be reading at the table. Imagine how immensely convenient this extensible bracket would be in such cases. When the light is desired only as a general illuminant for the room it can be pushed upward close to the ceiling, so that the rays of light will extend over the entire room. But when it is desirable to bring the light close to a table, for instance, for reading or sewing, the light can be instantly pulled down to the exact position which is most convenient. This bracket is simply constructed of pivoted tubes, which readily collapse or expand as the light is raised or lowered.

Raises and Lowers Light.

Varnish for the Violin.

The famous Italian violin makers used, it is said, the following sort of varnish on their instruments: Rectified alcohol, one-half gallon; gum sandarac, six ounces; gum mastic, three ounces; turpentine varnish, one-half pint. These ingredients are put into a can by the stove and frequently shaken, until the whole is well dissolved, when it is strained and kept for use. If upon application it is seen to be too thick, thin it with an addition of more turpentine varnish. A simpler preparation is made by mixing one pound of gum shellac in one quart of alcohol. The gum is dissolved by placing it in an earthenware vessel or a bottle with the alcohol and keeping in a warm place with frequent stirring or shaking. 2. Only the best of cabinet-maker's glue should be used for putting a violin together. It is prepared in the same way as ordinary glue, by melting it with sufficient water in a double glue pot, with water in the outer vessel to keep the glue from scorching.

Weight of a Pile of Stone.

The weight of stone in a pile may be estimated roughly without weighing it by ascertaining the cubic contents (found by multiplying together the length, width and height of the pile), and dividing this by the number of cubic feet per ton. This, of course, varies according to the variety of stone, its size, shape and the manner in which it is piled. Builders calculate that dry rubble masonry measures about 16 cubic feet per ton, and this is probably as near as you can arrive at an estimate.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. J. W. Dinsdale, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I use your Castoria and advise its use in all families where there are children."

Dr. Alexander E. Mintie, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I have frequently prescribed your Castoria and have found it a reliable and pleasant remedy for children."

Dr. J. S. Alexander, of Omaha, Neb., says: "A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is, deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."

Dr. J. A. McClellan, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have frequently prescribed your Castoria for children and always got good results. In fact I use Castoria for my own children."

Dr. J. W. Allen, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I heartily endorse your Castoria. I have frequently prescribed it in my medical practice, and have always found it to do all that is claimed for it."

Dr. C. H. Glidden, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "My experience as a practitioner with your Castoria has been highly satisfactory, and I consider it an excellent remedy for the young."

Dr. H. D. Benner, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria as a purgative in the cases of children for years past with the most happy effect, and fully endorse it as a safe remedy."

Dr. J. A. Boarman, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

Dr. J. J. Mackey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I consider your Castoria an excellent preparation for children, being composed of reliable medicines and pleasant to the taste. A good remedy for all disturbances of the digestive organs."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

"Not a crop failure in 18 years."
"Can raise more here than on Eastern land costing five times as much."
"Came here 4 years ago with $800; now have $4,500 in bank;"—Said of Panhandle and South Plains Country.

The best land bargains to-day are found in the prosperous Southwest.

The Panhandle and South Plains region of northwest Texas offers good lands at the lowest prices in the Southwest.

You can't buy land there as cheaply this year as last, and it will cost more next year. So the time to buy is now.

I am not in the land business. The Santa Fe Railway employs me to help settle up the country along its lines. The service to you is absolutely free. I aim not to exaggerate. The truth about the Southwest is strong enough.

I consider the Panhandle and South Plains as unequaled for the man with small means. Likewise nothing better for the man with a big bank-roll. Both will prosper.

This country is no longer on the frontier. Thousands already have settled there. More are coming in on every train. You won't be lonesome, but you won't be crowded, either.

You ask what can be raised?

Beef, cereals, fruit — and other things.

The average rainfall is twenty-four inches, enough for raising crops without irrigation. The more brains you farm with, the bigger the yield. "Dry-farming" helps out some seasons.

I might talk on forever and not convince you half as much as by reproducing the testimony of Mr. W. M. Curfman, of Hereford, in the Texas Panhandle. He says:

"I came to Hereford four years ago and bought 640 acres of land nine miles southeast of town.

"Built me a house and broke about forty acres of land the first year. Sold $416 worth of produce off of same and had enough left to winter thirty-five head of cattle and horses. The second year had 120 acres in crop, and sold $802 worth of farm products and wintered forty-five head of stock. The fourth crop is not yet harvested, except the wheat and oats. The wheat and oats will bring me about $400, and expect to get about $1,000 out of the balance of the crop, besides wintering my stock.

"I now have 165 acres in cultivation. I raise wheat, oats, June corn, milo maize, kafir corn, sorghum, California wheat, millet and cotton, and all kinds of vegetables. I came here with $800 and could make my check out now for $4,500."

Mr. Curfman seems to be a satisfied man. You can do as well as he — perhaps better. May I help you get a home somewhere in this best of the few places in the United States where raw land may be bought for less than it is worth?

Cut out this advertisement. Mail it to me with your full name and address. I will then mail you illustrated land folders which tell the story in detail and send our homeseekers' monthly, The Earth, six months free. Questions promptly answered.

JUST DOUBLE

320 ACRES INSTEAD OF 160 ACRES

As further inducement to settlement of the wheat-raising lands of Western Canada, the Canadian Government has increased the area that may be taken by a homesteader to 320 acres—160 free and 160 to be purchased at $3.00 per acre. These lands are in the grain-raising area, where mixed farming is also carried on with unqualified success. A railway will shortly be built to Hudson Bay, bringing the world's markets a thousand miles nearer these wheat-fields, where schools and churches are convenient, climate excellent, railways close to all settlements, and local markets good.

"It would take time to assimilate the revelations that a visit to the great empire lying to the North of us unfolded at every turn."—Correspondence of a National Editor, who visited Western Canada in August, 1908.

Lands may also be purchased from railway and land companies at low prices and on easy terms.

For pamphlets, maps and information as to low railway rates, apply to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or the authorized Canadian Government Agent:

Hookey Young started out on a horse trading trip to-day. We hope to see him return with an auto, as he is a good "steers man."

Last Monday evening a large crowd assembled at the depot to witness the incoming passenger train which carries mail. It was hailed with delight, as we have been deprived of our evening papers and the dispatching of our love letters the past two months.

We received a friendly call from our old friend Chas. Rishell last Sunday. He was enjoying a trip in his auto. His family accompanied him. He was, as most autoist are, looking for a couple of "bolts".

The School Board met on Saturday last and settled with County Treasurer Howard, to the satisfaction of all concerned. Charlie surprised some of his antagonists when he came square to the front and showed the genuine metal he is composed of.

C. J. Farrell and Wm. McDowell have opened a dance house in what was formerly Hart Bro's store, when Jacksonville boomed. They were liberally patronized. They expect to repeat the old-time amusement in about two weeks.

The public were favored with preaching at the school house on Thursday evening by the new minister Rev. Skank. All seemed to enjoy his discourse and he made some plain English expressions as to when he called on the congregation for a stay over night' "he hoped to find beds without those little vermine without wings" and its supposed that part will be look-after in due time, with the necessary antidote, so none will have to feel meek and lowly.

Decoration day was duly observed here by the ladies of W. R. C., at Portage cemetery. These ladies placed flags on the graves of their hero husbands. For the first time in many years not an old veteran was present, which is positive evidence that they are passing away.

Mr. Chas. Prosser and family have been stopping with his son "Rile" for a few days. Mr. Prosser is suffering from a light attack of typhoid fever and we hope for his speedy recovery. He expects to return to Binghamton soon.

LEZAH ATSUGUA.

The First Electric Lights.

John Hollingshead was the first man to use electric light in London. In 1878 he installed six arc lamps at the old Gaiety theater and startled the Strand. The price of gas shares fell immediately. The cost of the lamps was $200 a week, and he ran them for nine months. An attempt to plant one inside the theater at the foot of the grand staircase was a failure. The women objected to the fierceness of the light. One of them, for instance, "pretended to be very anxious that the secret of her soft complexion should not be discovered." Professor Erasmus Wilson said of electric light at that time, "With regard to the electric light, much has been said for and against it, but I think I may say, without fear of contradiction, that when the Paris exhibition closes the electric light will close with it, and very little more will be heard about it." Mr. Hollingshead, by the way, had fitted up the Gaiety as early as 1869 with an electric searchlight, which flashed the length of the Strand. But he soon withdrew that for fear of scaring the horses.

To Find Your Affinity.

Your affinity is your mate, but unless you know the six types of happy married folks on Olympus, up to date, you may miss yours. Jupiter, king of heaven, ruler of men, house and business, must marry Juno, the queenly woman, plump, domestic, wise as Minerva, yet loving as Venus. Venus should mate with Apollo; but, being fond of all men and usually pretty, a Venus woman marries any one, often several times. Marry and be petted and adored she must or die. Minerva, on the contrary, can be happy only with a Vulcan, a man her counterpart, wise, lofty, patient, a reformer, teacher and philosopher. Both have contempt for frivolity and meanness and vice. Most all of the elderly single women in the world, especially those descendants from Puritan or Calvanistic stock, are single just because they are the Minerva type and too wise to marry any one but Vulcans. And Vulcan men, being the best of their sex, are scarce.—Nautilis.

Not What It Was For.

When Miss Julia Bryant, daughter of William Cullen Bryant, was a little child an aged lady, who was for a time a neighbor of the poet and his family, had been shown into the parlor of the house, where she was making her first call. She found the small Julia seated on the floor with an illustrated volume of Milton in her lap. Although she knew, of course, that it must be the artist, not the author, in whom at that early age the child was interested, she asked genially by way of beginning an acquaintance:

"Reading poetry already, little girl?"

Julia looked up and regarded her gravely. Then she explained, with an air of politely correcting inexcusable ignorance:

"People don't read poetry. Papas write poetry, and mammas sing poetry, and little girls learn to say poetry, but nobody reads poetry. That isn't what it's for."

Then He Landed.

"Beauty is a woman's most important attribute," said a New York beauty doctor. "She who increases beauty is woman's greatest benefactor. Husbands, brothers, even fathers—in their inmost hearts beauty is the thing they desire most to see in their feminine relations. Only the other day a gray, fat old gentleman entered a newspaper office and said:

"'Are you the managing editor?'

"'Yes,' was the reply.

"'I suppose that on you, then,' said the visitor, 'rests the responsibility for this morning's reference to my daughter Patty as Fatty. Take that!'"

A Test Question.

Corset follows the figure—it embraces the body closely in its graceful curving outlines. It is not tight here and loose there—pinching and squeezing the body to its shape. It is shaped to fit the figure and fit all over.

The NUFORM

expresses beauty — beauty in all the natural lines of the figure. YOUR corset, the Corset that will present your figure to the best advantage, is represented among the many varying styles of the NUFORM.

We have just added several new styles of the well known to our large variety. After comparing many makes of $1.00 corsets we have concluded that the W. B. is the best to be had for the money. We have a corset to fit every figure in these popular new styles at the low price of

W. B. CORSETS

$1.00 Each

We also have a splendid corset of the same make at

50c Each

THE CORSET FOR THE NEW GOWNS

Every heightof bust—every type of waist—with a comprehensive assortment of hip styles.

ERECT FORM

is the corset that gently moulds the figure to the proper shape for the latest costumes without "forcing" but by conforming to your natural figure. Enhancing the good curves and grading off the awkward spots, it produces a figure of which to be proud.

Of Interest to Farmers and Mechanics

Farmers and mechanics frequently meet with slight accidents and injuries which cause them much annoyance and loss of time. A cut or bruise may be cured in about one-third the time usually required by applying Chamberlain's Liniment as soon as the injury is received. The liniment is also valuable for sprains, soreness of the muscles and rheumatic pains. There is no danger of blood poisoning resulting from an injury when Chamberlain's Liniment is applied before the parts become inflamed and swollen. For sale at Taggart's.
